

Επιστήμη του Χορού
Τόμος 9, 2016

Ηλεκτρονικό Περιοδικό
Electronic Journal

www.elepex.gr

ISSN 1790-7527

Science of Dance
Volume 9, 2016

The Dance Studies in Greece. Trends and Prospects.

Goulimaris D.

S.P.E.S.S., Democritus University of Thrace

Abstract

The new economic and social environment that we live with intensity especially in recent years largely determines the needs of the dance and "requirements" of the people who framing it. The area managers should be able to support multi-level dance activities. Namely they can cover the needs arising in educational level and dance productions in artistic and organizational level. At paper outlined the studies on the subject of dance that can follow someone in Greece. The Departments of Physical Education and Sport provide top-level studies specializing in Greek traditional dances. Studies in other types of dance mainly in ballet and modern dance provided by the Higher dance schools. Recognized by the State higher dance schools is the Greek National School of Dance and some private dance schools. There was a lack of complete and exclusive in university-level dance studies. Creating dance department will cover academic needs, searches of people who want to study dance and labor market needs, which is important and constantly growing due to the large participation in dance activities.

Keywords: dance studies, dance department